

The Democrats' Dangerous Plan

Back in the Spring of 2019 I wrote that the Democrats' plan was not to impeach the President, but to disparage him sufficiently to sway non-aligned independent voters to vote against him or out of sheer disgust to not vote at all.

My thought was that after the Russia probe collapsed, as it was destined to do from the outset, the Democrats would resign themselves to old fashioned nasty politics. But almost immediately after the collapse of the Russia investigation there suddenly appeared, as deftly as a magician pulls another string of handkerchiefs from his right sleeve after just having emptied his left sleeve, a new set of charges - which as we all too well know has led to the sham impeachment; an impeachment, as Nancy Pelosi has said, "for all time."

While the Russia probe was ongoing Mr. Trump was accused of having consorted with foreign agents to steal the election. The election was said to be invalid, not only because Mr. Trump did not win by a majority, putting aside the Electoral landslide that he attained, but because he stole it with Russian help.

The fact that the Mueller investigation concluded that there was no collusion has not deterred Adam Schiff from making the same allegation he made ad naseum before the investigation concluded that he has made during his incessant invective filled Impeachment rant.

Since taking office, everything disparaging that could be said about the President has been said - everything from calling him a Hitler to calling him a baby killer. The bottom line message of all the disparagement is that he is morally and emotionally unfit to be President. There was even FBI back room talk of using the 25th Amendment to have him removed from office.

On two occasions the Speaker of the House said that the President had a temper tantrum during their White House meetings. Just last month, Speaker Pelosi called the President an imposter. This of course not only reflects on him but on the millions who support him.

I wrote one year ago, "Credence must be given to some form of organized force behind this relentless campaign against Trump, because the attacks have come from within the government as well as from without." Recent revelations have only confirmed the involvement of the CIA, NSA, FBI, the DOS and even the DOD, as a money launderer to one of the key figures in the cabal.

As we saw during the House hearings, and now in the Senate trial, facts do not matter. The impeachment thus far has been a series of hyperbolic assertions, conjectures begging a connection to reality, irrelevancies, unsubstantiated accusations, repetition of opinion based bureaucrat testimonials, outright fabrications, misrepresentations, innuendo, and plain old lies. Congressman Adam Schiff even went so far as to mischaracterize and take out of context George Washington University's Jonathan Turley's House testimony, which in toto clearly stated that the charges being considered were wholly insufficient to justify an impeachment.

But the actuality of the situation has not deterred the Democrats from vituperative attacks and a continuing show trial with passionate pleas to the Republicans to join the Democrats in their effort to save America from a monster.

Since there is not actual evidence to support a bi-partisan conviction based on defined crimes, and there aren't enough Trump hating Democrats to reach a two thirds party line vote, and since removal will not happen, what then is the Democrats' end game?

The Democrats knew from the get go that they would be able to impeach the President, but even under the most strained set of circumstances they would never get enough votes to convict.

But the three days of the Democrat Managers' accusations in the Senate, which in many ways surpassed the disingenuousness of the House hearings vis a vis incredulity, disrespect and incivility, the Democrats are doing something more.

They have embarked upon a ramping up of the continual rant of false allegations, which, to me, signifies that there is a larger goal than merely forcing a losing vote to impeach and leaving Mr. Trump with a stain on his record.

The Democrats held the stage for three days and used the opportunity to say things that never should be said in a civilized Congress; but not only have their statements not been rejected in the press, their friendly media have applauded their presentations and misreported that there was solidity and cogency in the accusations brought against the President.

Their ultimate goal is what makes them dangerous. The Progressives / Communists have never looked at change in this country as a short term endeavor. The Progressive movement began a little more than a hundred years ago, the Communist movement somewhat later. Today they are connected - both being component parts of the Globalist movement. And, with a generation of indoctrinated America hating youth and a mélange of diversified sub-groups, there is a sufficiently large number of people motivated to bring the globalist orchestrated agenda front and center.

The Democrat House managers have said in one form or another that Senate Republicans are Trump bootlickers and are failing their responsibilities under the Constitution, and anyone voting against conviction is a traitor and part of the Trump conspiracy; that what the Democrats are saying is the holy truth and everything said to the contrary is part of the Republican lie filled cover-up. In fact anything Trump does to protect himself from the inane charges is demonstrably part of the cover-up.

We are now being told that not only was Trump's election illegitimate, the Senate is illegitimate and the acquittal will be illegitimate as well.

Most frighteningly, the Democrats have now begun to say that if Trump wins in 2020 he will have won by fraud once again.

I don't know that the Democrats have enough support throughout the country to succeed in an actual coup, but they are planning something down the road. And what we see now is the groundwork for that plan.

The Democrats control the large cities and the communications companies, especially social media, where so many congregate every day. They may or may not control the banks - that remains to be seen. But, the Democrats certainly have large numbers of people within the Federal bureaucracy who could make life in this country awful for their enemies; much more invasive and on a much larger scale than what was done in the IRS scandal executed by Lois Lerner under Obama.

What we are looking at is an organization claiming that anyone other than themselves who achieve power is illegitimate

The Democrats, who have taken the Republic and the Constitution to their hearts and lips these past several months, have no love for either the republic or for the Constitution or most of its citizens.

Most citizens really don't know what is going on. They don't know of Eric Ciaramella the snitch / "whistleblower" or his NSC "handler" Lt. Col. Alexander Vindman. Most Americans have no idea about the CIA / State Department / Soros orchestrated Maidan Revolution in the Ukraine, and the financial deals that were setup when the Obama administration replaced Viktor Yanukovich with an EU friendly government.

Too many Americans only know what they see on social media, or read on Yahoo or watch on CNN or MSNBC, or read in the New York Times.

They are ignorant of the actual collusion committed by the Democrats.

The Democrats' message is the message that has gotten out, it is the message most widely disseminated, while the truth about Ukraine and how the Federal bureaucracy undermined Trump has remained sufficiently hidden that it should be of great concern to conscientious citizens.

What too many impressionable Americans, many of whom are unshakingly convinced that Trump is a crook, will take away from the past three years, and the past three days in particular, is that Trump and the Republicans have stolen and cheated their way to power - and are illegitimate.

Convincing a goodly number of people that the duly elected government is illegitimate is a prelude to something very dangerous. I fear that the Democrats' plans goes beyond just telling lies about Trump. The swift change in Virginia and the plans there to disarm its citizens should make us reflect on how quickly things can change.
